

THE CENTRAL RECORD

LANCASTER, KY., FRIDAY, MARCH 24 1905.

NUMBER 52

Local Notes.

County court Monday.

The Masonic Lodge will work in the Entered Apprentice degree Tuesday night.

Rev. Donald McDonald delivered an excellent discourse at the Presbyterian church Sunday.

The lake is over the highest valve, and plenty of water for the summer is assured. Isn't that fine?

Butter and eggs have come down in price, and we poor people can get a square meal now for less than ten dollars.

"Religion and politics" is Eld F. M. Tindler's subject for next Sunday evening.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Raymond Haselden Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Found, class pin, initials "E. S. C." Call at this office, describe property and pay 30 cents for this notice.

Every Garrard farmer feels good over the invention of a machine to break hemp. It means dollars in their jeans.

The bore who has discovered that "the days are getting longer" is now firing that information at helpless acquaintances.

Members of the A. O. U. W., will please pay their assessments to Miss Mamie Walter, as Mr. Barton the collector, has moved away.

The Ladies Aid Society is preparing to hold a flower sale, on some near date, time and place to be announced later. If you have orders for potted plants, let the Society know it.

The decorations at the Gill-Faris wedding were made by Honaker, the Lexington florist, who has a wide reputation for such work. He is represented in Lancaster by Joseph & Walter.

Circuit court has been in session all this week, and a great amount of business has been attended to. No judge has ever given greater satisfaction than has Judge Bell. His prompt, fair decisions, courtesy to litigants and lawyers and gentlemanly bearing have won a host of friends in Garrard.

If some moneyed man wants a good investment, he will do well to buy the Yeager store rooms, advertised in this issue as to be sold Monday. Rent is as high as a cat's back, in Lancaster, and store rooms are like gold mines to their owners.

As long as business men sit on their pants and think of only their own personal welfare, business will be slow. Every citizen and especially property owners, should see that what builds up the town works to their own good in the long run. Root for the town.

Fine Time For Templars.

The Richmond people are making great preparations to entertain the Kentucky Knights Templar in May. The Templars know how well they entertain in Richmond, and every one who possible attend is rubbing up his sword and getting the scent of the moth ball out of his uniform.

A Drouth Breaker.

There is some talk of an old-fashioned "rope" fair for Lancaster this summer. The Record is in favor of the fair, but would suggest that we wait and see if we have a drouth, as a fair will bring rain in Lancaster as certain as the sun shines.

Confederate Veterans.

A meeting of M. D. Logan Camp No. 1330, will be held at the circuit clerk's office next Monday (court day) at 1:30 o'clock. As some very important matters are to be attended to, it is very important that every member be present. Don't forget the time and be there promptly at halfpast one o'clock. Joe H. Arnold, Commander.

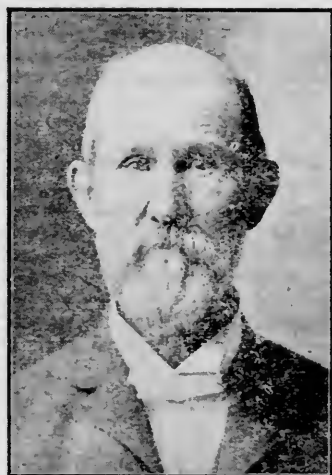

To Produce Fine Horses.

Jas. I. Hamilton has just returned from the South where he shipped some high-class saddle and harness horses, and being asked when he would ship again, said: "I cannot tell. There is a good demand for high class horses, but they are not here. There are ten buyers to every good horse. I will, however, ship a car of the best-bred stallions Kentucky can afford to Harlan, Iowa, this week, and I feel sure that as soon as they can be produced, I will be able to buy enough high class colts in Iowa to supply the demand for high class horses. I have shipped to Iowa Calvin Dare, son of the noted Chester Dare whose colts have been bringing sensational prices, and Lee Onward, son of Onward, the sire of 173 in the list and the sire of more in the list than any horse that had lived at the time of his death. With such stock as this, what is to hinder me from getting the colts in Iowa as soon as they can be produced? I intend to place more there than this, and I intend with in the next year to place in that state, or wherever I can find good ones, some of the strain of Black Eagle, Black Squirrel, Denmark, Hambletonian, Vermont, Abdallah Messenger, Clay King, Belmont, Washington, Knox and other high bred ones, giving that country the chance this one now has."

JUDGE JOSEPH S. ROBINSON

Dies Suddenly in Citizens National Bank. Great Shock to Citizens and Irreparable Loss to Community

One of the greatest shocks this community ever had was that caused by the sudden death of Judge Joe S. Robinson, last Friday afternoon. While Judge Robinson has not been in perfect health, yet he seldom complained and held up remarkably well for a man of his years and one who had served through the civil war. Last Friday, he worked in his garden for some time and walked up to Judge Hemphill's tailoring establishment and was measured for a suit of clothes, about half past three o'clock. He went from there to the Citizens Bank, sat down and talked for a few minutes with several gentlemen. There was not the slightest sign of illness, when he gave a few gasps, his head dropped and he was dead before those sitting near reached him. Several physicians were quickly by his side, and their opinion is that death was caused from heart trouble. The news spread rapidly and the house was quickly filled by business men and other citizens. We have never heard so many expressions of regret as have been given on the passing away of Judge Robinson, as our people knew from past experience what a help he was to the town.

how readily he took hold of every proposition for improvements, how quickly he contributed of his time, means and advice to every movement for the up building of the town, and, greatest of all, what goodly influence his pure Christian life had in the community.

No one in trouble ever went to him for aid and returned empty-handed. His purse-strings were always loose and his heart open to those in need of help, and since his death we have heard so many kindly words spoken of him, that it seems sad that living he might not have known how much the people valued, trusted and appreciated him. His manners were so agreeable, his courtesy so uniform, his friendship so constant and his fidelity so unfailing that he won esteem, confidence and popularity no less than wealth, substantial manifestations of which were made in many forms, among them being his election to offices in the city, county and financial institutions.

Joseph S. Robinson was born in Garrard county, on the first day of January, sixty-seven years ago. He was a son of the late Jacob Robinson, a citizen whose many fine traits linger in the memory of those who knew him. In early life, the deceased became a farmer, and devoted his entire time thereto until being elected county judge, in year 1891. At the breaking out of the civil war, he joined Woolford's Cavalry, and served with honor during that struggle. He has been connected with every prominent enterprise in the town, and at time of his death was vice president of the Citizens National Bank. He was married to Miss Annie Wallace, of this county, who with three brothers, A. C., J. C., and Thomas survive him. He had been a member of the Christian church for fifty-one years. His devotion to his church, his punctual attendance upon the services and his willingness at all times to not only help financially but devote his time to serving his Master, made him a church member worthy of emulation.

Funeral services were held at the Christian church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Eld F. M. Tindler, Revs. C. M. Chumbley and C. S. Young at the conclusion of which the remains were interred at the Lancaster Cemetery. The immense bank of beautiful floral designs and the great concourse of people attending the services were but a faint testimony to the high esteem in which Judge Robinson was held. The church, the town and business interests of all kinds have lost a man who was ever ready to do all in his power to promote good, and his memory will be cherished by every one who is for the upbuilding of morality and commercial enterprises.

Walker.

Many Lancaster and Garrard county friends extend sympathy to Mr. R. L. Walker, on the death of his wife, which occurred near Nicholasville Thursday. Mr. Walker lived near Kirksville for many years, and was a frequent visitor to this city. He was married in 1894, and has resided in Jessamine for some time. A number of Garrard county relatives attended the funeral at Nicholasville Friday.

MEANS MONEY FOR FARMERS.

The Most Disagreeable, Heaviest and Hardest of Farm Work Now to be Done by Machinery.

The hemp-breaking machine, described in last issue of The Record, is the sole topic for discussion, not only in Garrard, but news of its success has spread to adjoining counties, and farmers are coming for miles to see the wonderful work being done. This invention means everything to the farmer, as he can now sow his hemp and have the assurance of getting it ready for market. No one but the farmer has the most remote conception of the trouble experienced in securing hands to handle not only hemp but all other products of the farm. Those hands who work at all, demand exorbitant prices, they go and come at their own pleasure, in fact the farmer is simply at their mercy. As stated in last issue of this paper, the machine breaks and cleans as much hemp in one day as can be done by one hundred hands, and it is done better than the old colored man can possibly clean it. Many years of hard study and work have been put on the invention and this is the first practical test given in the field. It is of very simple construction and easily operated. The company owning the invention is one of the strongest in the country, and some of the most prominent men of the United States are interested in it. The machine means that farmers can put every foot of their land in a crop that has the greatest demand of any product of the farm, and the more important fact that the crop can be handled promptly.

Some of the darkies complain that machinery has taken their place. Of course it has, just as this hemp-breaking machine will, but the colored men will have plenty of work in raising more hemp and, as soon as a large, steady supply can be relied on, linen manufacturers will be established here in Kentucky, the same as cotton factories are being put in all through the South. How can Lancaster get the first?

Some of our readers may not know it, but before the war, when the farmers had plenty of help, Kentucky alone raised seventy-five thousand tons of hemp each year, which was largely manufactured into clothing on our home plantations. The old spinning wheel and loom have disappeared. Today we only raise about ten thousand tons. The falling off in production has been caused from the fact that help cannot be secured to break the hemp, the darkies who did this work are now scattered and gone.

There is more money for farmers in hemp than any other crop, we heard a prominent farmer say, yesterday, "I have as good hemp land as can be found on the face of the earth, but I will not be bothered to death begging hands to work it. Now that this machine does the work, I am so well pleased that all but necessary pasture land on my place is going in hemp. No new machine ever did more perfect work the first test in the field. A machine of any kind has never been invented that was not pronounced a failure by some people. In this case, the most doubtful immediately changed their opinion and are heaping words of praise upon the invention. It will break and clean hemp better than the professional negro hemp cleaner. It will not 'strike' on me, and I can go away and leave it in the field with perfect assurance that it will be there at work when I come back. The farmers should enter into their closets and give thanks that a way has been invented by which we can get our hemp handled."

The machine is here simply for a practice test in the field, to adjust it and get some minor details completed. Several prominent men from Chicago and New York will be here this week to see it work. Some large hemp mills and cordage factories have already sent representatives to Lancaster, and one has given an order for the first one-hundred tons of hemp cleaned on this machine.

It seems that Spring has "sprung."

The rural routes continue to grow in popularity.

Examinations have been on in the Graded School this week.

We send out exactly 2,750 papers this week. How's that for hi?

Why isn't the dog law enforced? We saw one Negro cross the Public Square with five worthless canines following him.

Don't forget the sale of the Yeager store rooms Monday. Property in Lancaster bring more returns than a gold mine. Rents are outrageously high.

To Open Monday.

The large building erected by Mr. C. D. Powell, on Richmond street, opposite the Baptist church, is about complete and will be thrown open for business next Monday, court day. It is up to date and a model in every way, and Mr. Powell will carry an immense stock of everything to be found in general store. He has built up a splendid trade since entering the goods business in Lancaster some years ago. He is a model citizen, one of benefit to the community. He asks the Record to extend an invitation to the people to call and see his new quarters.

The Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times has the following concerning our congressman: "Representative George G. Gilbert, of the Eighth district, is a hard student, and will devote much of his vacation to a comprehensive analysis of the proposed railway rate legislation. Mr. Gilbert is another member who has not decided whether he will be a candidate for re-election. Whether he decides to run again or not, he may spend some of his spare time on a lecturing tour."

CENTRAL RECORD.

Issued Weekly. $1.00 per Year.

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky., March 24, 1905

A Marlon (Ind) family, believers in Christian Science, fell on their knees and prayed when they found their house in flames. They made no effort to rescue their property and threw no water on the fire. The family is now homeless, says a report from there. This family didn't work it's Christian Science just right. The way to put out a fire with Christian Science is to use lots of water with it. Christian Science, with medicine and a good doctor to go with it, will do wonders in the way of healing the sick. You can make a good garden with Christian Science if you, also, use the hoe and sprinkler. With a good stove in a room you can warm through Christian Science. In fact, Christian Science will accomplish almost anything if it is mixed with the proper ingredients.

Officials of the Army Hospital in Washington have discovered a use for the appendix. It makes a splendid artificial entrance into the abdomen for the introduction of strong medicines, they say. Possibly the old sawbones don't know it, but it will also serve for a far happier purpose, that of getting down the mean grade of liquor these days.

The Rev A C Dixon, of Boston, says he would like to see Eliza the editor of a daily paper. He may be able to guide the destinies of a great metropolitan journal, but if Eliza wants to come down, try the newspaper business and then get back into his happy home, he had better not tackle a county weekly.

Some of the topics for discussion at the Mothers' Congress were, we presume, "Which is the More Effective, the Shingle or a Beech Limb?" "What is the Best Manner in Which to Patch Little Breaches?" "Should the Urein be Allowed in the Room While Mama Talks About the Neighbors?"

Because Congress failed to provide for the purchase of the necessary bullion, a scarcity of small silver coins is predicted. As newspaper men soon learn to live without coins, this failure upon the part of Congress will work no hardship on the wielders of the quill.

"The tobacco trust cleaned up $22,000,000 last year," says a special to the dailies. If the trust will spend a few dollars "cleaning up" where the users of the weed have decorated the sidewalks, it will do a good turn for a suffering public.

Two college professors, one from Columbia university the other from the University of America, told a leading Philadelphia club recently that gambling in itself is not wrong. That is about as much sense as the average college professor has.

At the outbreak of the Russo-Jap war, many contended that Russia would be victorious "because she had so many men." If she hadn't had "so many" there would not be a live Russian left to tell the tale.

The Japs and Russians had better hurry and patch up their little trouble. The base ball season will soon be on, and the daily-press will not have the time, space or inclination to keep them before the public.

One of the big, rich churches, in New York, has been found to be weak in its roof timber. Certainly. That part closest to Heaven is always the weakest in dress-parade churches.

The snuff trust had profits of $3,500,000 on last year's business. Yet every woman in the land might be placed on the witness stand and she would swear she did not "dip."

There is talk of forming a lobster trust. It can never be done, as the crop of lobsters, especially the two-legged variety, is entirely too large to be handled by one management.

"The Mothers' Congress" was in session at Washington last week. We presume every shingle and slipper factory in the country had agents present with samples of their goods.

A New York stock broker says it is just as safe now as it ever was for a man to invest his savings in Wall street. Like the unloaded gun, or the old family horse, eh?

In France the women must pay a tax of $10, before they are allowed to wear men's trousers. In this country, all they have to do is get married.

Instead of calling Russia the "under dog," don't you think the term "the dog in the lead" would better describe the present running fight?

At the Mothers' Congress, miniature shingles and peach-tree switches were doubtless worn as souvenirs.

Starting Mortality.

Statistics show startling mortality from appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery of 14 Custom House Place, Chicago, says, "They have no equal for Constipation and Billiousness." 25c at R. E. McRoberts, druggist.

Several of our farmers have bought their clover seed from Mr James Spillman, of Beuna Vista, for $8 per bu. This proves that it is better to sell to the consumer than to a combine.

An election was held here Saturday afternoon to elect a county committeeman for West Bryantsville as Mr Anderson Bolling has resigned. The result was a tie, Mr Houston Ballard and Mr Green Bolling receiving the same number of votes.

Local society was greatly surprised yesterday when it was learned that Mr Will Swope and Miss Nannie Arnold had driven to Burgin and were married by Rev Welburn. The bride is a daughter of Mr Roy Arnold and very popular. The groom is a prominent and prosperous farmer. We join their many friends in best wishes.

Mrs Mae Steadman has returned home and is daily receiving her new spring millinery. She will have a beautiful line and would be pleased to have all her friends call and see them. Mrs Steadman has secured the services of Miss Johnson, an experienced trimmer from the South, who will arrive in a few days and is sure she can please you in whatever you want.

On account of ill health, Mrs Allie Haselden has sold her millinery to Mrs Josie Boner. Mrs Haselden has been in the millinery business for about twenty years, and her many friends will regret to know that she has decided not to run it any more. A home wedding with pretty arrangements was that of Miss Mary Gill and Dr. G. C. Faris, Wednesday evening. The floral decorations were tasteful and picture-que. The bridal party stood beneath a canopy of smilax, white and pink blossoms, palms and ferns forming the background. The playing of the Mendelssohn wedding march by Miss Marguerite Kinnaird announced the approach of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Donald McDonald, an uncle of the bride, from Danville. ## For the Farmer, Trader and Housewife

Stock Items, Dairy Notes, Horse Talk, Crop Gossip, Etc.

Win Cantrill sold his crop of hemp, about 10,000 pounds, to C. S. Brent & Bros., at $5 per 112 pounds. J. W. Young, of North Middletown, sold to James Berry, of Moorefield, a 16 hands high Jack, for $875—Paris Kentuckian.

C. S. Brent & Bros., Monday purchased several crops of hemp at $5.15 per cwt. T. H. McIntock & Sons, of Millersburg, sold 20,000 pounds of hemp to Spears & Sons, of Paris, at $5.15. Reports show that 231,500 pounds of tobacco were sold in Bourbon last week at from 9 to 13 cents per pound.—Kentuckian Citizen.

Leading tobacco men of Cincinnati say that the combine must have Burley tobacco in large quantities, and that very soon, and if the growers will not rush their tobacco on the market in a lump, good prices can be maintained throughout the year. About one hundred millions of pounds yet remain in the hands of the growers.—Bracken Chronicle.

The farmers and planters of Robertson county, Tenn., have raised $6,185 with which to erect a warehouse at Springfield, in which to store their tobacco until a fair price can be realized. A regularly organized stock company will control the warehouse, and under a law recently enacted by the Legislature more can be crowded on the stored tobacco.

The price paid for lambs, especially for the late delivery, has been quite high this Spring and many buyers are fearing they have not allowed a fair margin for profit. The truth of the matter is the lamb crop, or the early part of it at least will be much smaller than usual. The extremely cold weather caused the loss to be abnormally large and this is true all over the country.—Midway Clipper.

Flarity Bros., of Mason county, have delivered their tobacco to the American Tobacco Co., at Maysville, at 13 cents. The produce of 12 acres brought $2,525.25. H. B. Cushman has bought of Eugene Davis at Helena a crop of about 100,000 lbs. tobacco at 12 cts. It is of the cigarette type. John Shandlin also sold his crop to the Continental at 11 cts.—Flemingsburg Gazette.

In my experience to make hens lay in winter they should be kept busy. I do not believe in the old-fashioned idea of getting them too fat to lay, but I do believe hens should not be allowed to gather about and sit still. This is the result when fed all they want or eat for breakfast. To prevent it feed them a very light feed of corn, wheat and barley scattered about in a little, so as not to be very noticeable. They at once begin picking over the litter to find the grain they like best and so continue to scratch all the morning.

The Louisville Times says the utility of organizing farmers to accomplish a purpose in agriculture has been demonstrated by the collapse of various schemes looking to that end. Almost all classes of wage earners, from locomotive engineers to messengers boys, respond readily to organizers. Capitalists experience no difficulty in "getting together," and in sticking together, for their mutual benefit and the disservice of the consumer. Proprietors of many enterprises smaller than the interests which amalgamate to form the great trusts manage to hang together so as to present an impenetrable front; but the men who toil the soil lack cohesiveness.

Ten days "out" to a wage earner in a city is a period of greater stress than ten days' waiting, or even thirty days, waiting, to the average farmer, yet the laborer holds out and the farmer, as a rule, does not. With an organization similar to that of the Typographical Union, or the United Mine Workers of America, American farmers would be a supreme power in organizing seems to lie in the fact that a large percentage of the farmers fail to recognize that there are class as well as individual interest to be considered.

Work and Peace.

"Ye've called me names, an' ye've called me names," said a little newsboy on the street to his tormentor, "but I ain't got no time to 'tend to ye 'cause I've got my business to look after. If I ever get a holiday so I've nothing more important on hand I'll lick ye."

The bystanders laughed, but the small boy had proclaimed a great truth—busy people have no time to quarrel. Work is a great preserver of the peace and those who are intent on some useful task have no time to waste in broils and bickerings.

The Joy of Soul Saving.

Ah, there is no joy on earth like the rapturous joy of soul-saving. It is one of the most precious sheaves ever garnered by the Christian worker.

My brother, if you have not this passion for saving souls, you have not yet been blessed with the holiest joy of which the human heart can conceive.—Rev. F. D. Johnson.

The lean Christian is sure to be nervous.

The Reason Why.

Evangelism—It is so expensive living in town, if you want to look at all nice, you know. Why, my boot bill alone comes to over $30 a year.

Her Dear Friend—Does it, really? Ah, but your feet are rather large, are they not, dear?—Ally Sloper.

A Fellow Feeling.

Indignant Subscriber—I say, look here, you know, what do you mean by announcing the birth of my tenth child under the heading of 'Distressing Occurrence'?

Country Editor—Dear, dear! I hadn't noticed it; that must be the foreman's doing; he's a married man himself.

GOD IS MY REFUGE.

God is my refuge when the storms of earth grow wild, And shelter He will not refuse His feeble child.

And when the angry waves dash high, Seas madly roar, Up to my God who refuge gives I swiftly soar.

Beneath the shadow of His wing, I calmly rest; Kind was the storm which drove me thus To shelter blest.

Had not the billows mounted high, Too high to cross, I'd still be on the surging sea—O fearful loss.

Welcome the pain so exquisite; I fly in fear. To God who leads in mercy wise His children's fear.

Welcome the wrongs, the grief, the woe, So lately spurned, Eise had I not to Heaven and Love For refuge turned.

—Margaret Florence McAuley, in N. Y. Observer.

A MAN WITH THE HOE.

He illustrates a Principle in Life Which Stamps Character and the Surroundings.

It makes a difference where you place the emphasis, whether on the man or on the hoe; whether you say a man with the hoe, or the man with a hoe. The latter may be an object of pity, but not the former. Mr. V.—said the other day that he could keep up with Mr. W.—in hoeing, if he did not make so many mistakes. Just so. All that is necessary is excellence, to know how to strike, where to strike and to distinguish quickly what to strike.

To be a man with a hoe is to conquer the soil, and make its culture a source of pleasure and profit, says Rev. George W. Borden, in New York Observer. This requires head and heart as well as hand.

That is, in a man, there is much in location, much in soil, much in seed, but the main factor is man. Gardening has been reduced to a science, so that a man with the hoe may have the hand-hoe, the wheel-hoe, or the horse-hoe, but in every case the man is with the hoe.

It is this element of manliness that makes the "before" and "after" pictures. The reclamation of the wilderness, the transformation of the slums, the beautifying of city and farm homes. Real estate almost always advances in price when the owner shows himself to be a man with the hoe—an aggressive, industrious improver of his premises.

It is unnecessary to draw a moral. Suffice it to say that the incessant war of the hoe against weeds, against hardness, against drouth, against sourness, requires the vim and spirit of a true fighter in order to raise a good crop, whether that crop be of the garden or of the heart.

DUTY AND DEVELOPMENT.

How the Latter Depends Largely on the Faithful Discharge of the Former.

One of the most worthwhile and permanent compensations which comes to one as a consequence of having performed a duty that he had greatly dreaded, and from which he shrank at a good while, is such a development of faith, courage and power as he would not have otherwise obtained. There are many Christians who often pray that God would enable them to increase in spiritual strength, and they expect him to give that increase by a special dispensation of his grace, but it is doubtful that he does so.

The divine philosophy is that if the Christian will do God's bidding, even when it involves the most rigid personal sacrifice, an increase of spiritual strength will inevitably follow. Performed duty, and development of the Christian graces are vitally linked together, and the more difficult it is to perform a certain duty, the deeper and more permanent and valuable is the personal development. And so, instead of one's depending upon God specifically to develop his spiritual nature, in answer to prayer, there should be a complete abandonment of one's self to the discharge of manifest duty, however disagreeable it may appear to be. The secret of the rapid and broad development of the spiritual life of some Christians lies in the fact that they have performed duties which required their utmost courage and the completest self-sacrifice.—G. H. Wetherbe.

Work and Peace.

"Ye've called me names, an' ye've called me names," said a little newsboy on the street to his tormentor, "but I ain't got no time to 'tend to ye 'cause I've got my business to look after. If I ever get a holiday so I've nothing more important on hand I'll lick ye."
